

DORA: How aPrio1 Helps Strengthen Your Digital Resilience

The Digital Operational Resilience Act (DORA) of the European Union is a regulation aimed at strengthening the digital operational resilience of financial institutions and market participants. DORA requires financial service providers to take appropriate measures to protect their critical digital services from outages, prepare for cyberattacks, and guard against other disruptions.

Our consulting related to DORA encompasses several key aspects. We assist financial institutions and market participants in understanding the complex requirements of DORA and implementing effective compliance measures. Additionally, we support the identification of risks, develop and implement security strategies, plan responses to disruptions and security incidents, design training programs, and help select and implement suitable technology solutions.

Prepare for DORA and enhance your company's digital resilience. Contact us to find out how aPrio1 AG can support you.

We deliver.
